A RARE GEM IN THE ULTIMATE COLLECTOR SERIES

When the first Star Wars™ films were released, fans were awestruck by the high level of detail and authentic looks of the starship fleets in this intriguing galaxy. Rugged or pristine, they often have as much personality as the live characters. Ever since the first LEGO® Star Wars™ sets were released in 1999, we have shared that love of the saga with fans of all ages and recreated its starships and vehicles in various scales. Rebel or Imperial, we keep every set as authentic-looking and detailed as possible.

The TIE Interceptor, infamous for its role in the Battle of Endor, was released as part of our first Ultimate Collector Series in 2000. It became an instant fan favourite. To celebrate our 25th anniversary, we're relaunching it in a new and even more detailed version.

Enjoy building!

Creative Director, LEGO® Star Wars™

THE TIE INTERCEPTOR

Size matters not when it comes to the TIE Interceptor. At 7.7 m (25 ft. 3 in.), it is designed for maximum speed and agility in battle. Originally employed by Palpatine's Galactic Empire, the Interceptor is faster and more manoeuvrable than other TIE fighters of its time. A new dagger-shaped wing design with large solar panel areas provides the necessary additional power for the large twin ion engines. To enhance performance in battle, Imperial designers increased firepower with four Sienar Fleet Systems L-s9.3 laser cannons and mounts for optional extra laser cannons.

While the TIE Interceptor boasts impressive armament and power, other essential design features had lower priority. With no hyperdrive system, minimal armour and no deflector shield, its strength lies in numbers – and the skills of its pilots. During the Battle of Endor, a swarm of TIE Interceptors proved a formidable fleet for the Rebellion's A-wings in particular.

MEET THE MODEL DESIGNER

"In 1999, I began working on what would become the first LEGO® Star Wars™ Ultimate Collector Series version of the TIE Interceptor. This model is a redesigned version of the starship, hopefully with equal parts authenticity and engaging design, wrapped in a fun building experience!"

"The Interceptor's design and story are quite unique. If the Empire had not fallen in the Battle of Endor, this would have been the mass-produced successor to Darth Vader's TIE Advanced x1 prototype. The cutaway wing design means that (at least in the film version) the starship is lighter and more aerodynamic. The pilot's lateral vision is improved compared to previous TIE models, giving the Imperial Navy an edge in star battles against the Rebels."

Design Master Henrik Andersen's first LEGO® Star Wars™ TIE Interceptor (7181) from 2000, and the new model (75382)

"The model is mounted on a stand with a 25th-anniversary plaque. The TIE Pilot minifigure with a new arm print is exclusive to this set. The miniature brick-built Mouse Droid is one we often see in Imperial and First Order hangars, bases and starships."

INNOVATIVE IMPERIAL DESIGN

- Behind the transparisteel viewport is a fully equipped cockpit with features characteristic of the TIE fighter-class starships
- Open the top hatch to see the pilot's seat
- Detailed octagonal engine section with inside greebling
- Unique new LEGO® building techniques were used to achieve a more authentic replica of the sphere-shaped exterior, compared to previous LEGO TIE fighters
- Train wheel elements in a new grey colour represent the wing struts
- Angled hinges and 32 new 2x4 sloped elements without studs were used to frame the bent-wing solar wings
- The two shovels representing the advanced targeting sensors were also featured in the original UCS model from 2000 – the first time a special element was used for a purpose other than its original use
- Whereas TIE fighters have twin chin-mounted lasers, the TIE Interceptor's four wingtip blaster cannons are attached to its solar arrays
- The rear of the wings is densely constructed, and the wingtips are slightly hollower to ensure optimal weight distribution
