

77

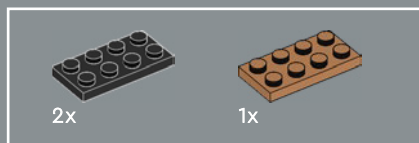

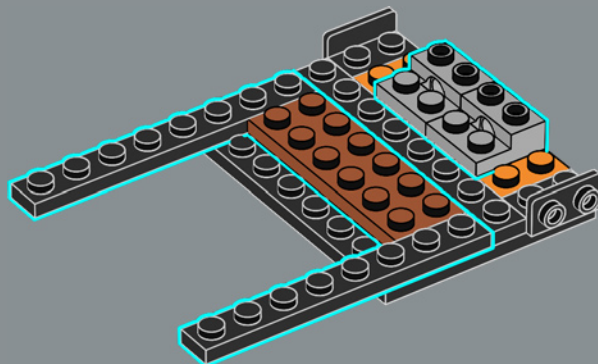

78

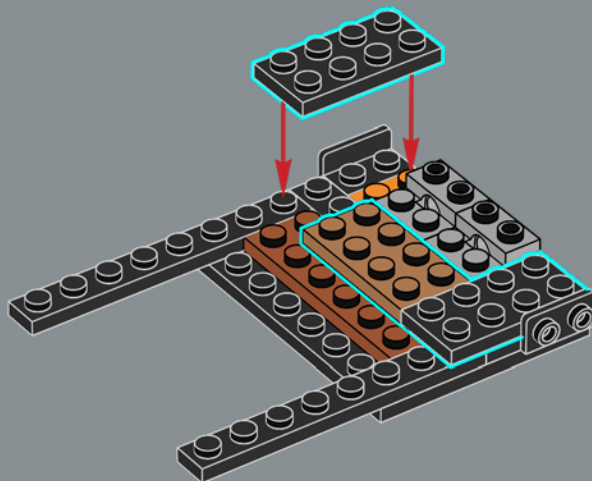

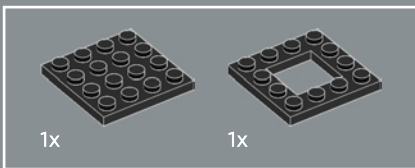

79

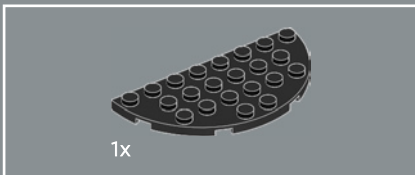

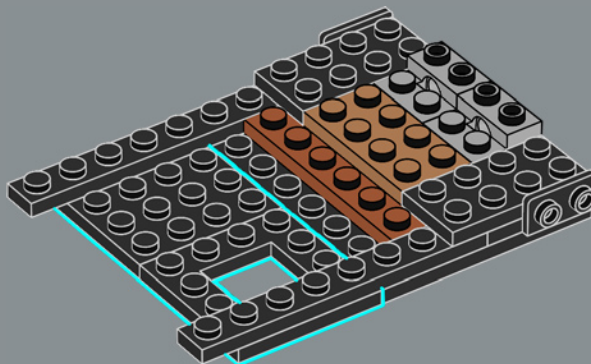

80

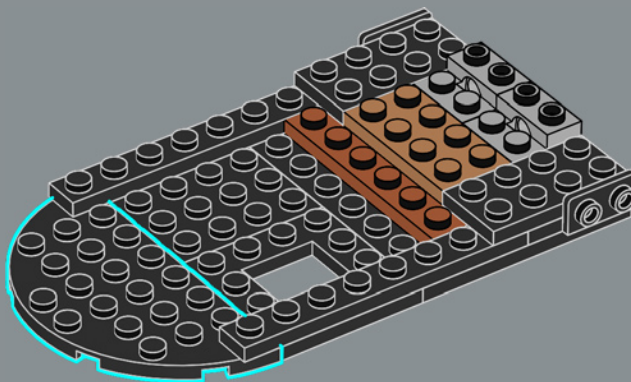

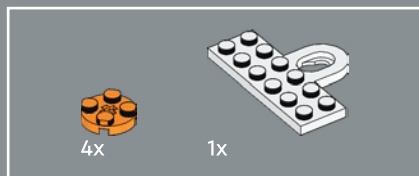

81

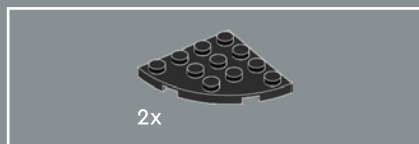

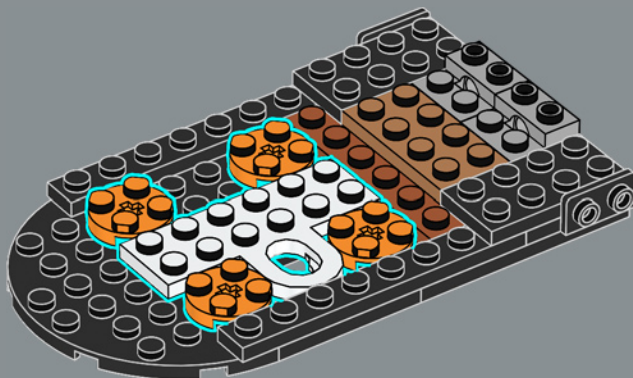

82

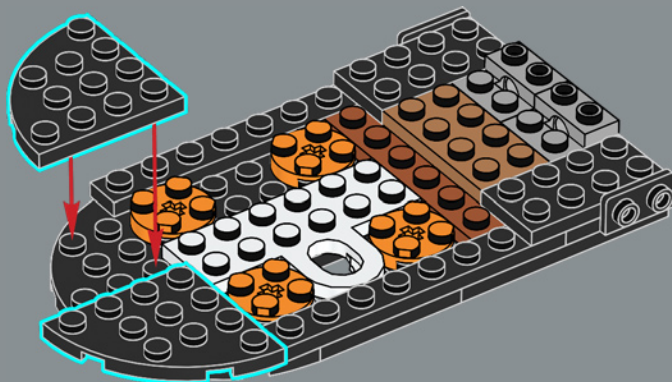

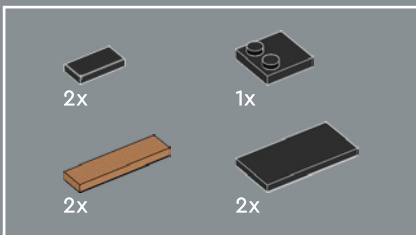

83

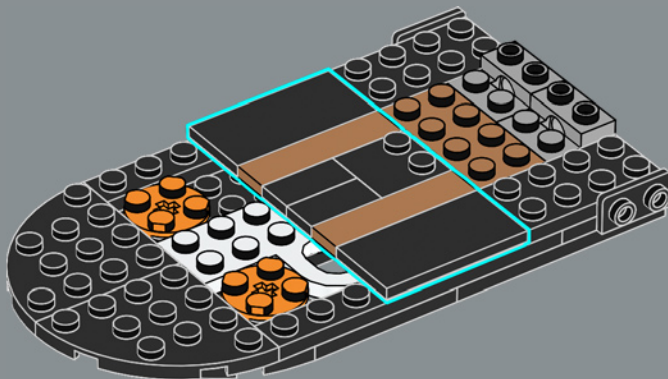

84

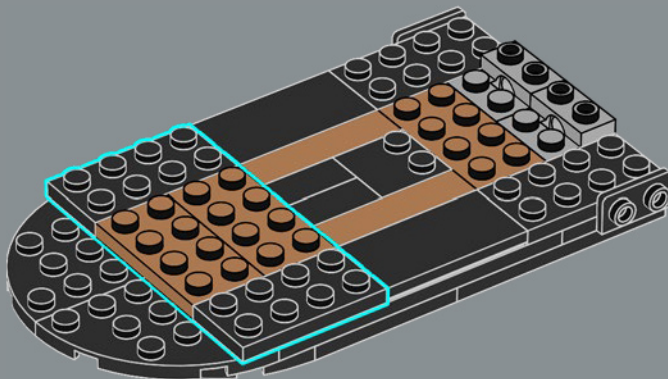

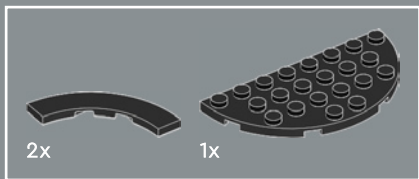

85

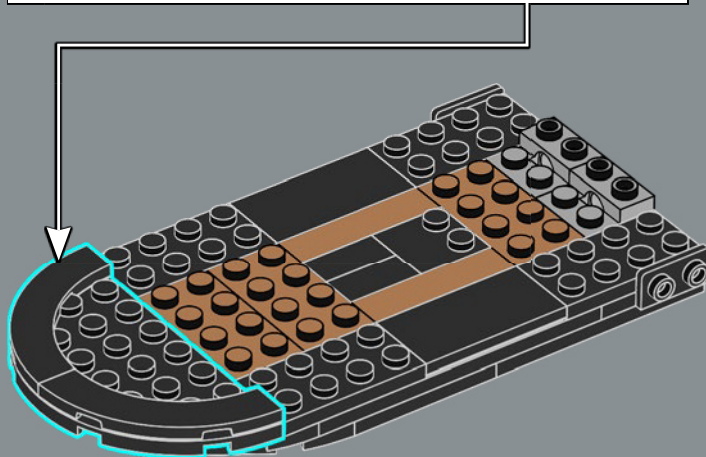

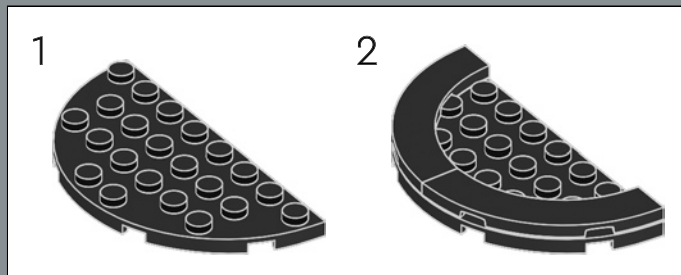

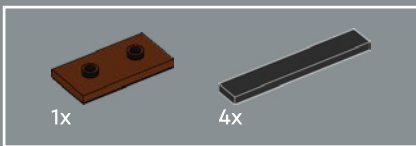

86

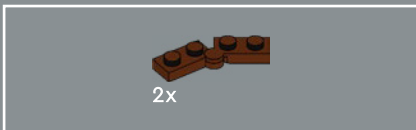

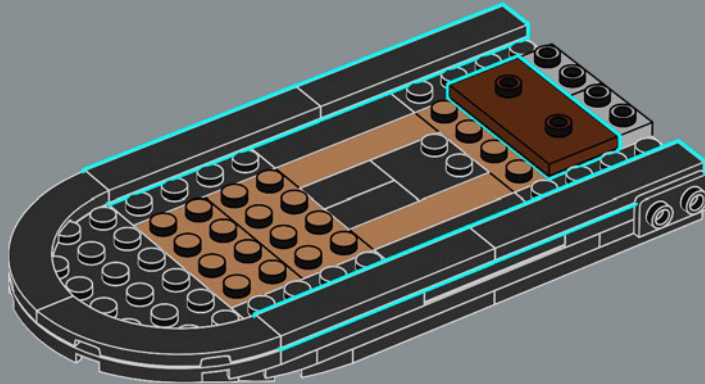

87

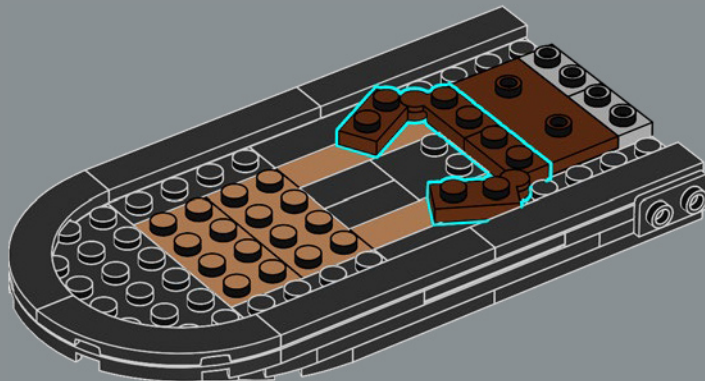

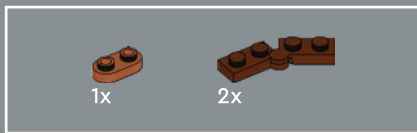

88

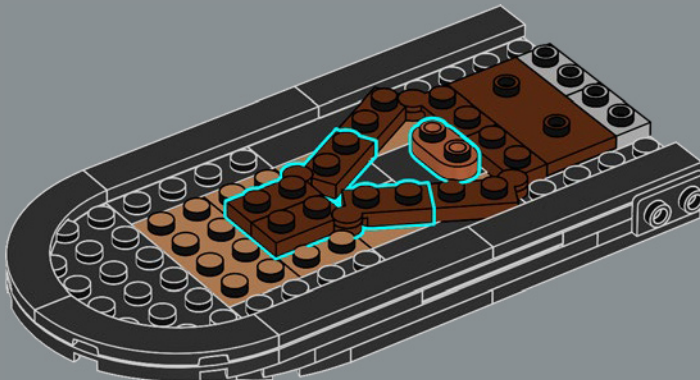

89

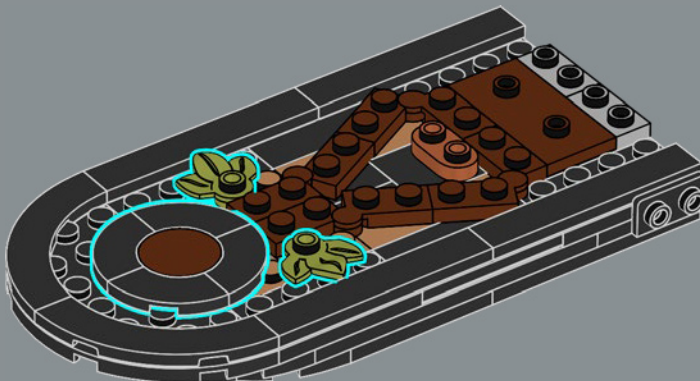

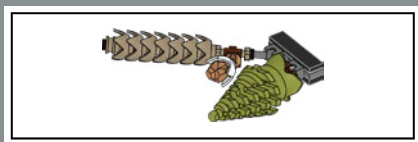

90

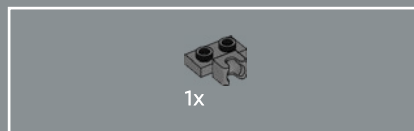

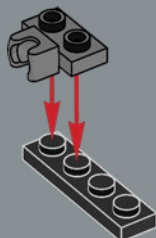

91

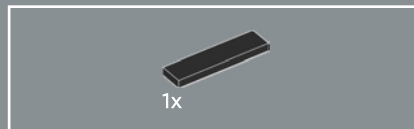

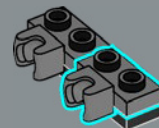

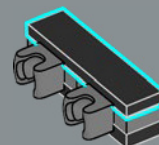

92

93

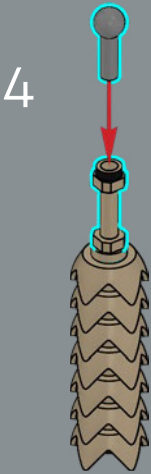

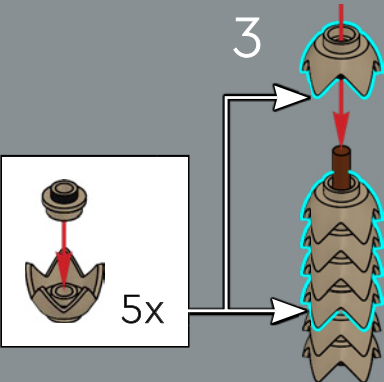

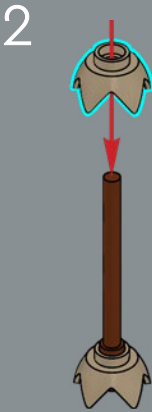

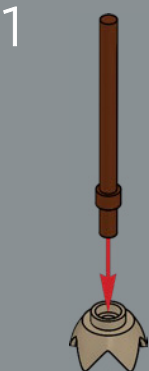

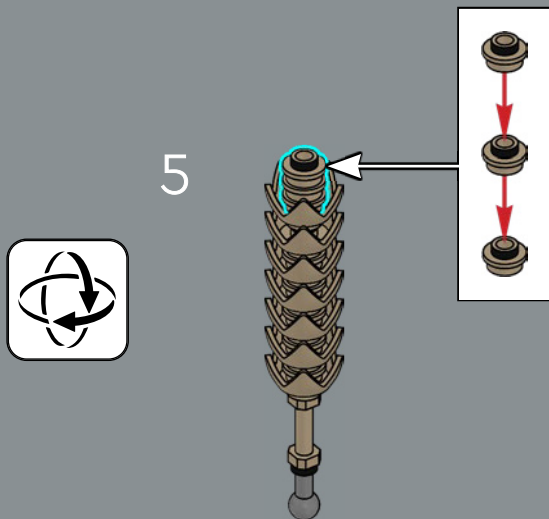

94

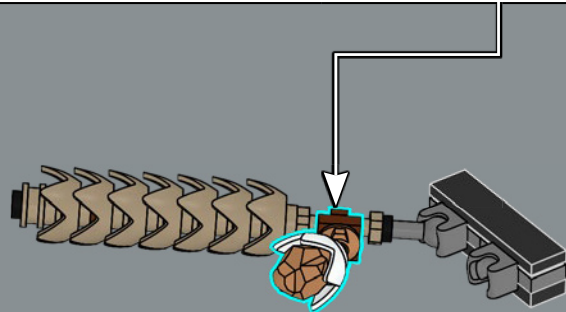

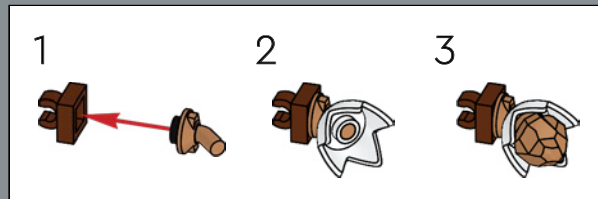

95

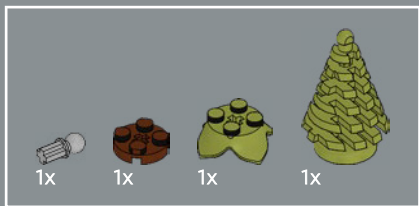

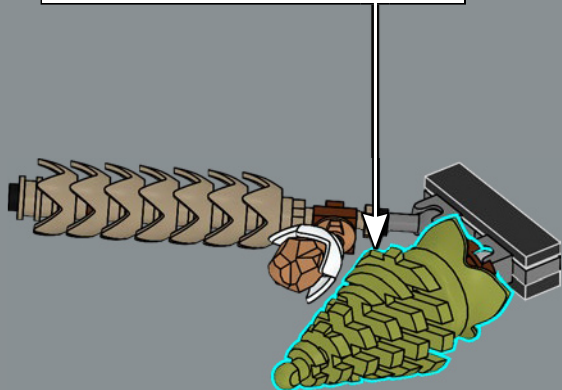

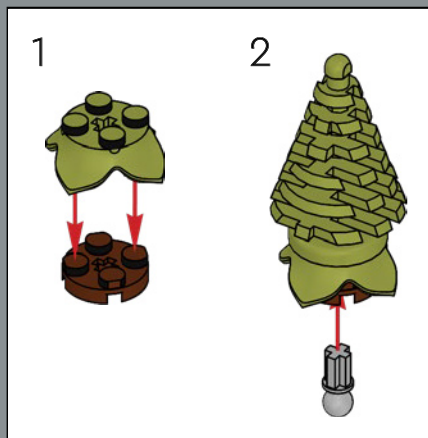

96

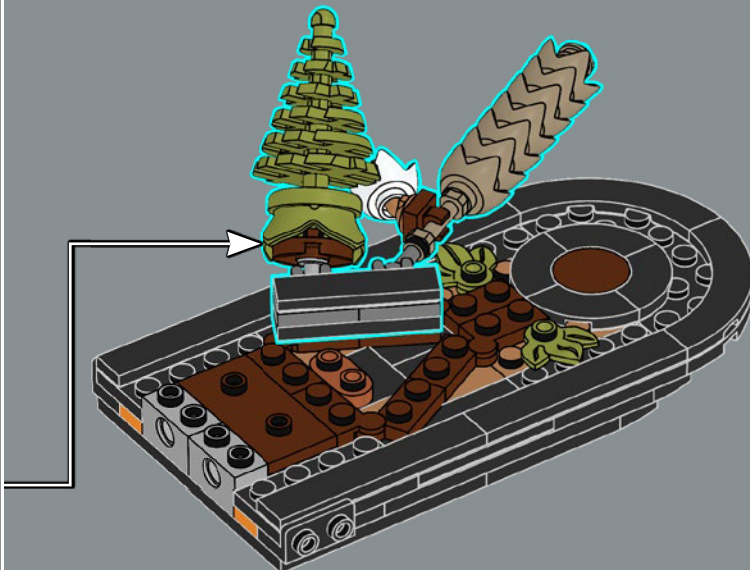

The stalks of wheat use nested crown elements to give the wheat its corrugated appearance.

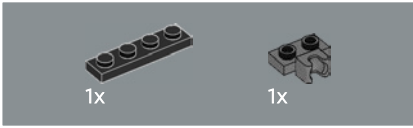

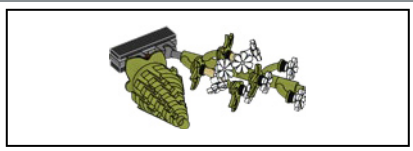

97

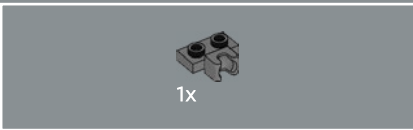

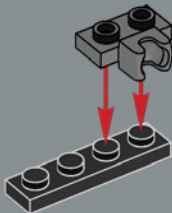

98

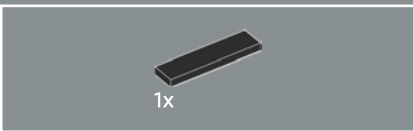

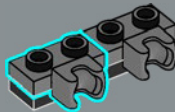

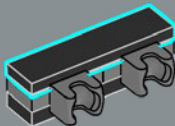

99

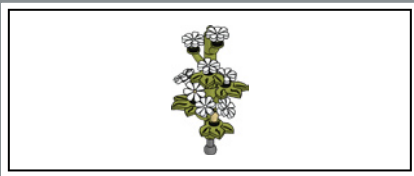

100

101

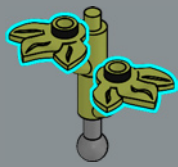

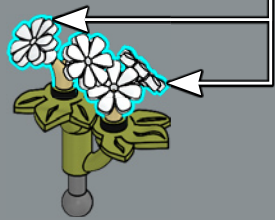

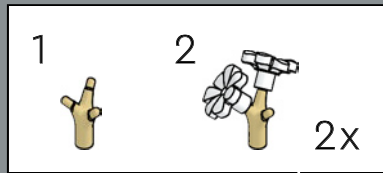

102

103

104

2x

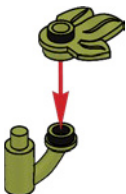

2x

2x

105

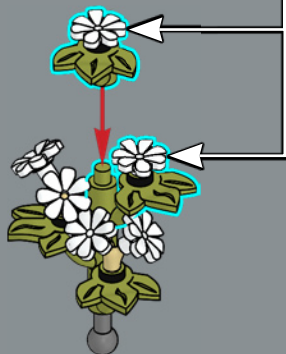

1

2

2x

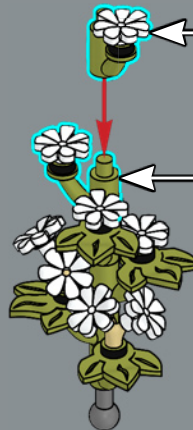

2x

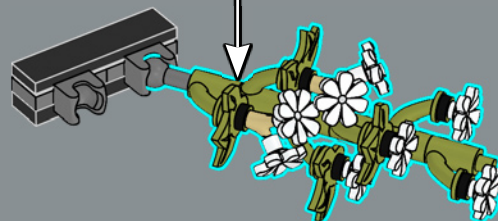

2x

106

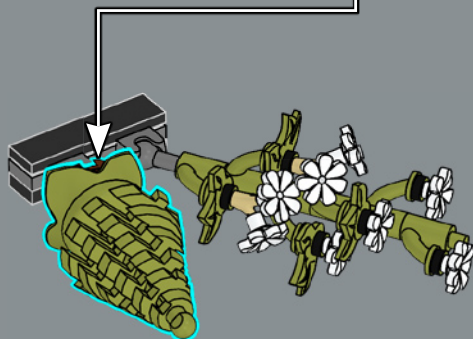

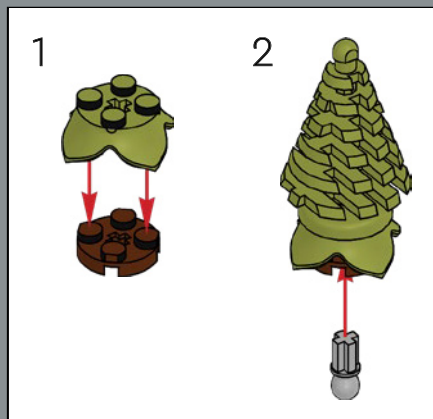

2x

107

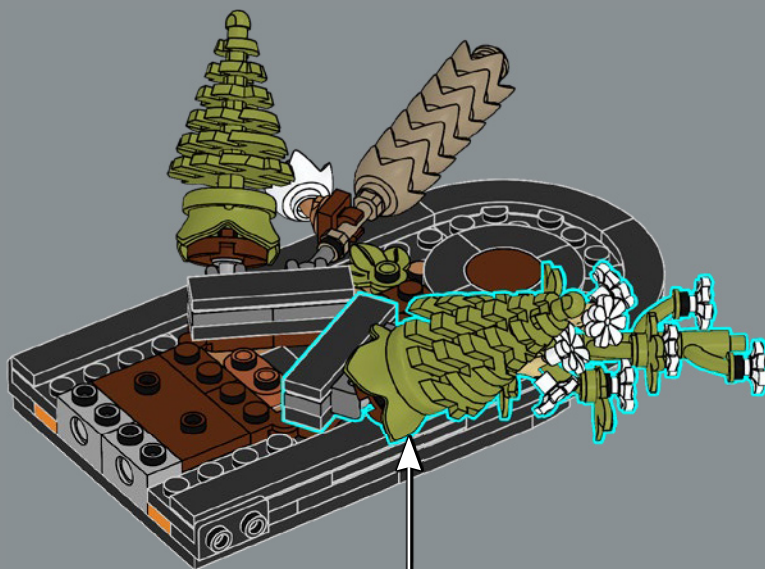

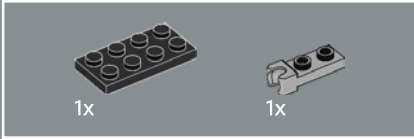

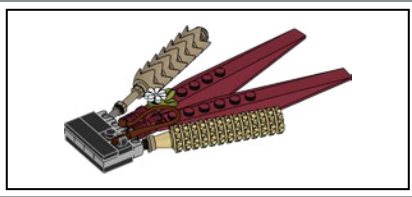

108

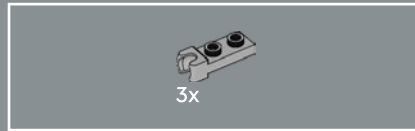

109

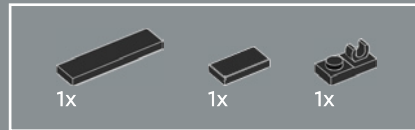

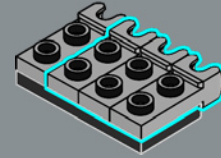

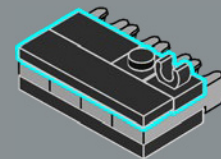

110

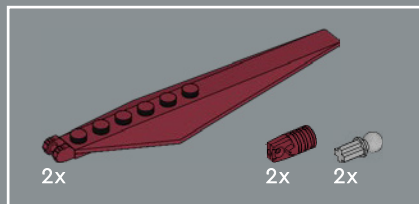

111

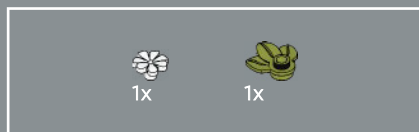

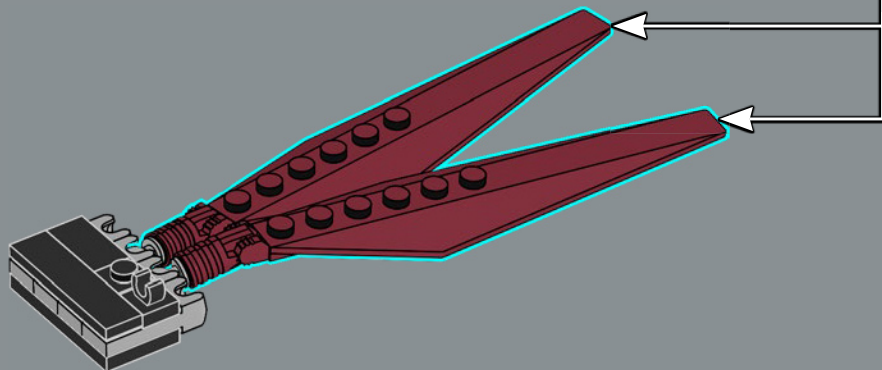

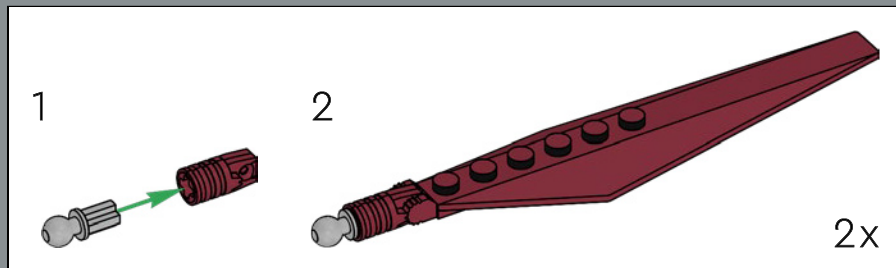

112

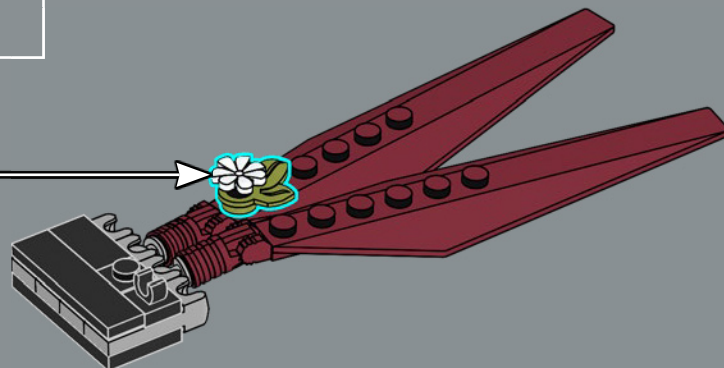

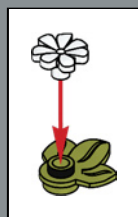

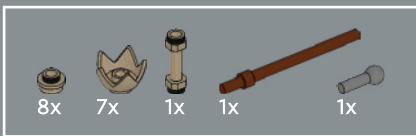

113

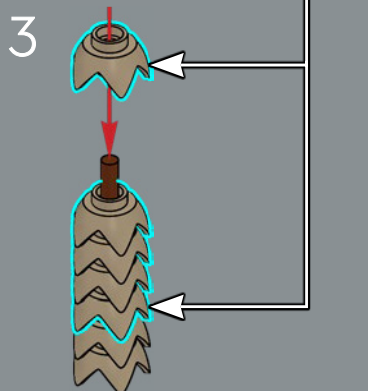

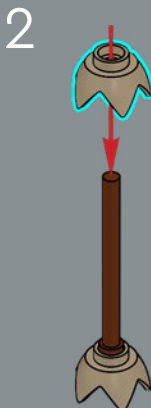

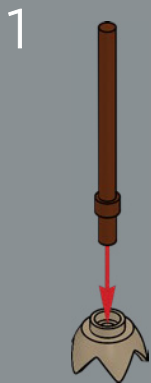

114

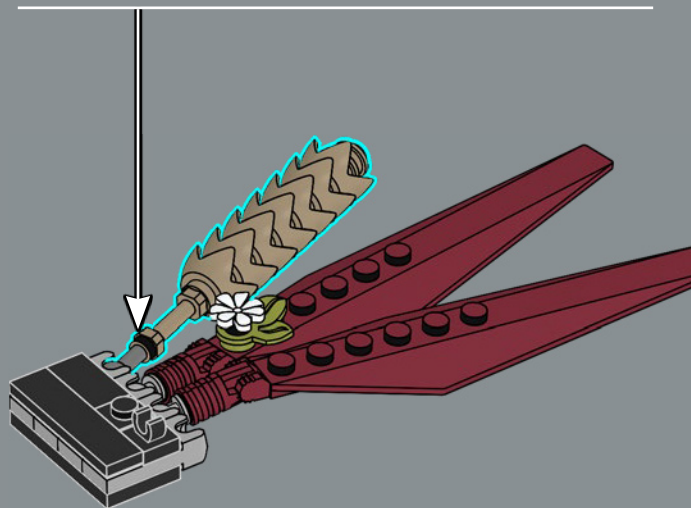

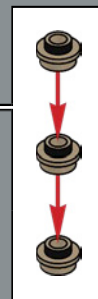

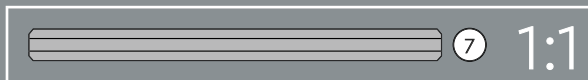

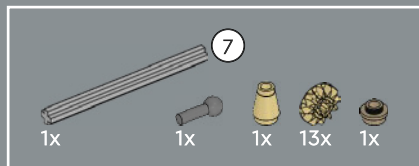

115

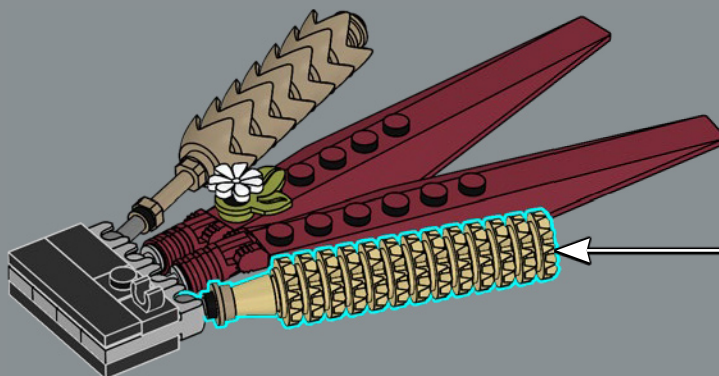

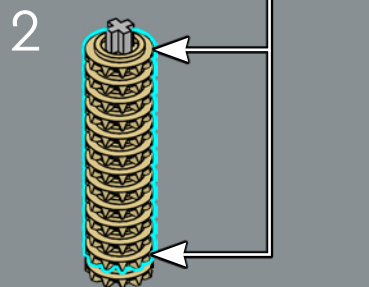

5

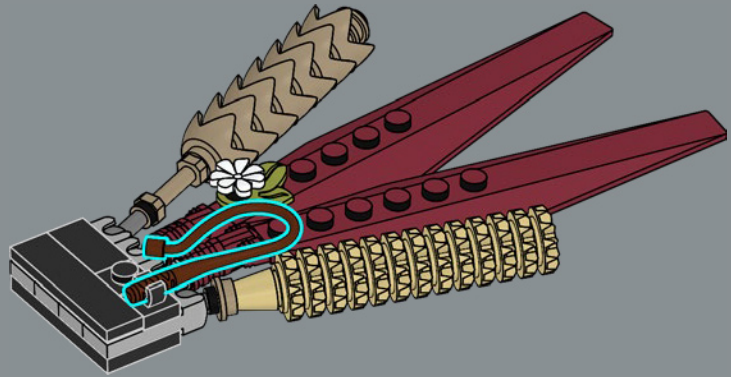

116

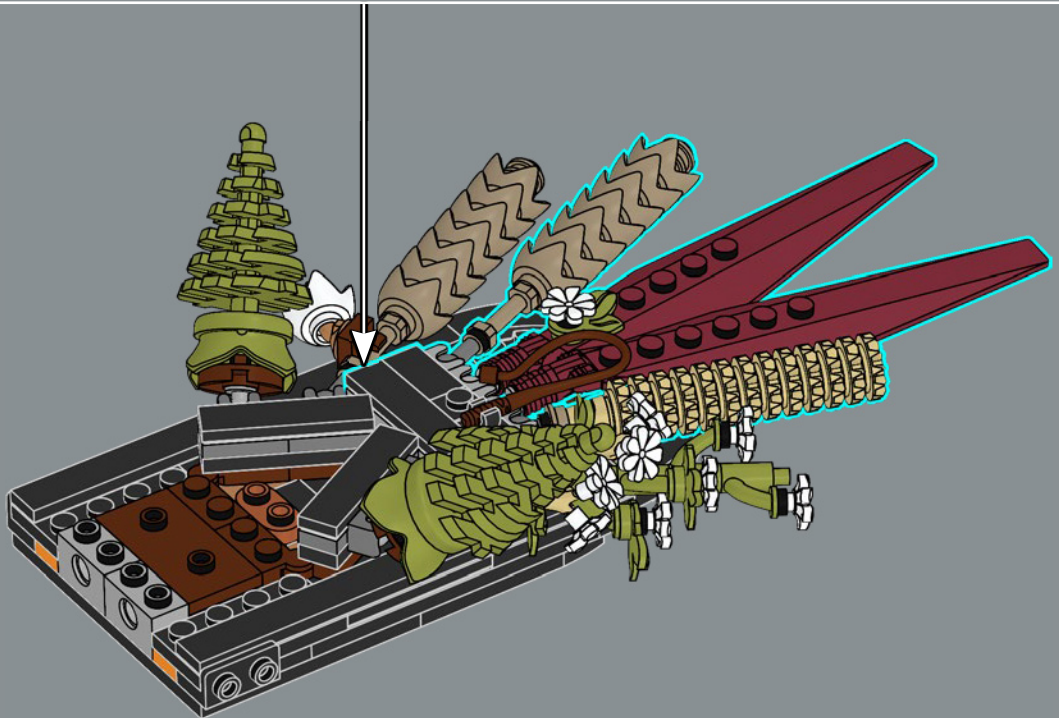

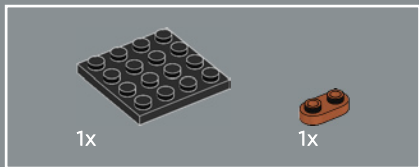

117

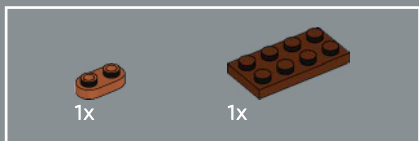

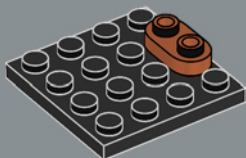

118

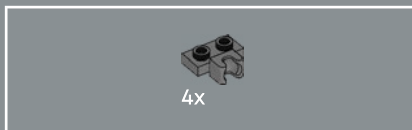

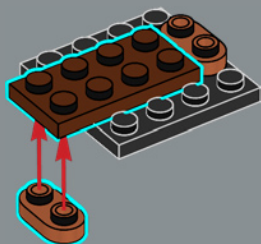

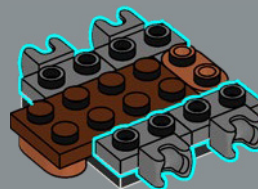

119

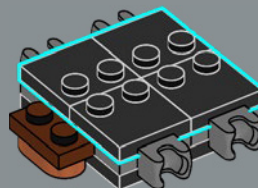

120

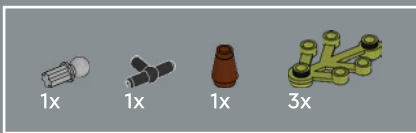

121

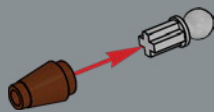

122

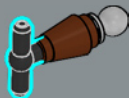

123

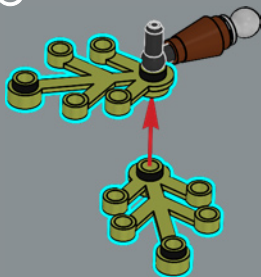

1

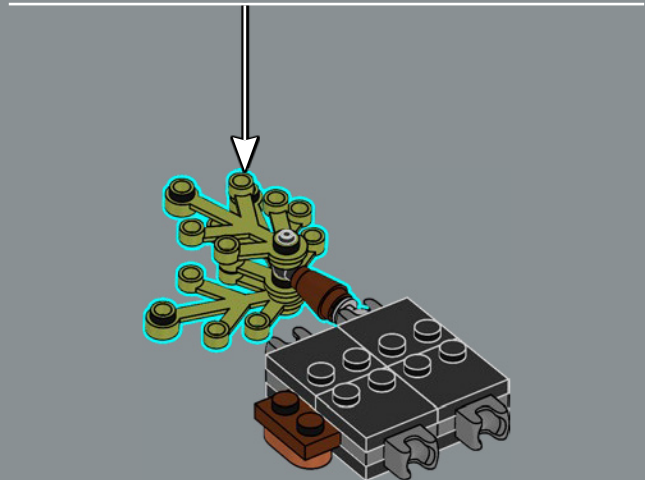

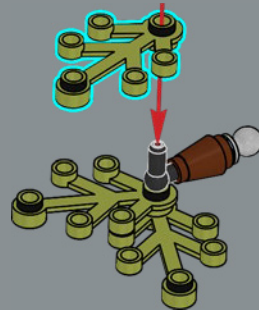

2

3

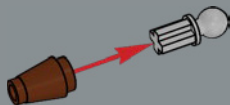

4

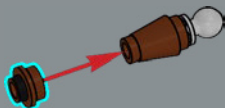

124

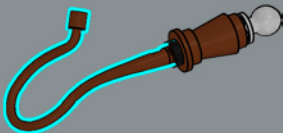

1

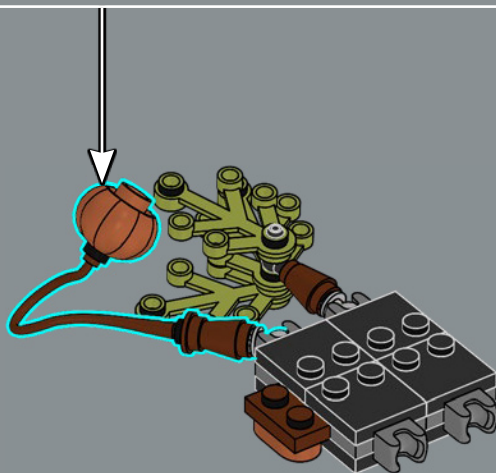

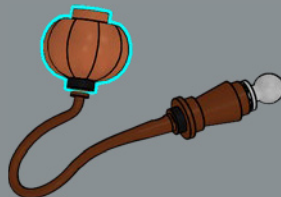

2

3

4

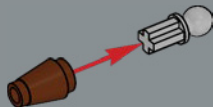

The peculiarly named bladder cherry is built with a LEGO® element that is usually used as vegetables, (like pumpkins or lanterns) and a flexible brown whip element.

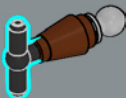

125

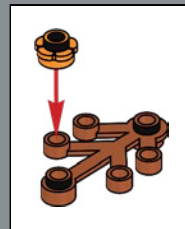

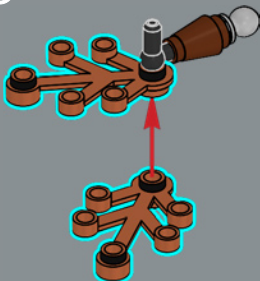

1

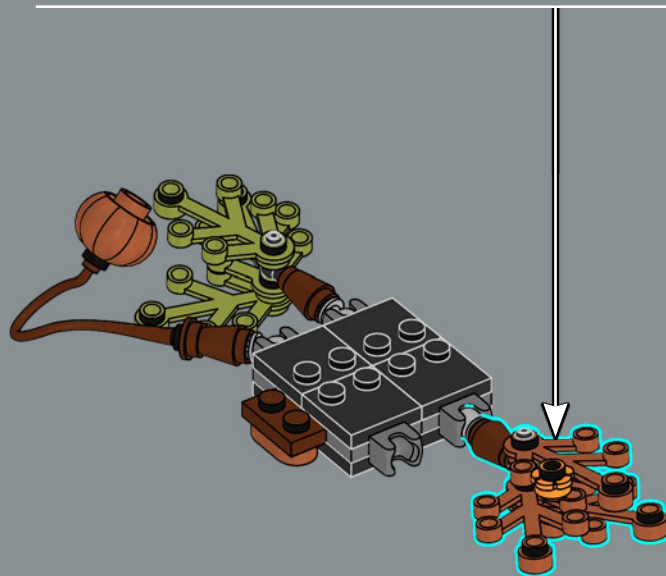

2

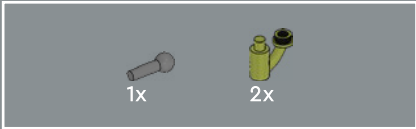

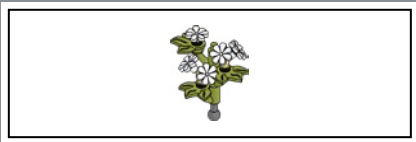

3

4

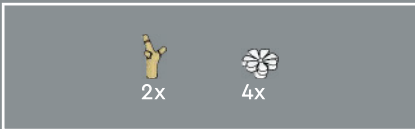

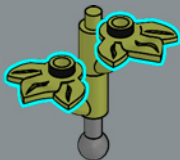

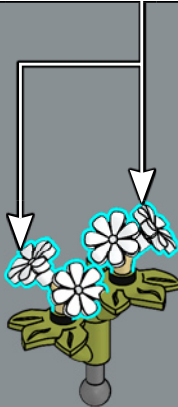

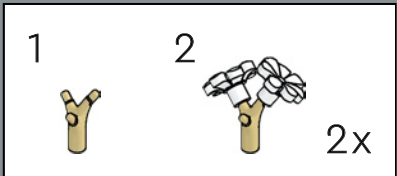

126

127

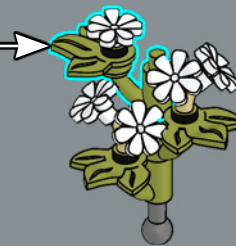

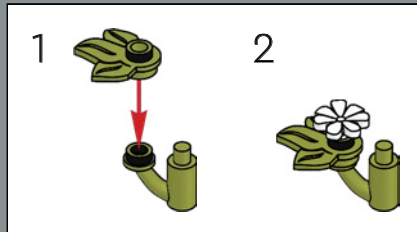

128

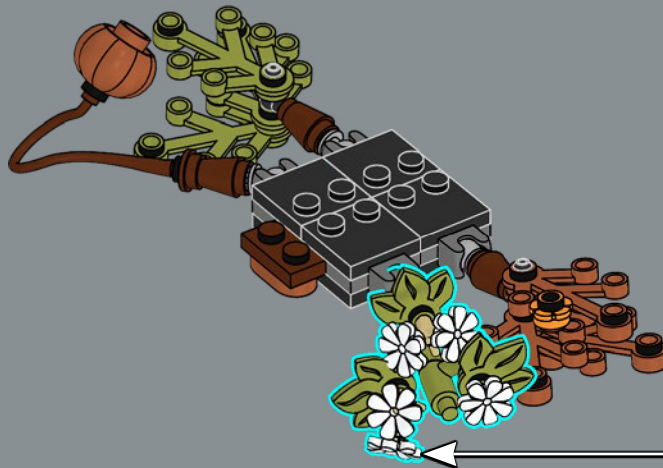

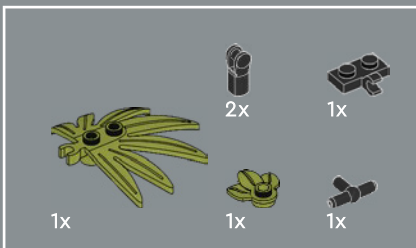

129

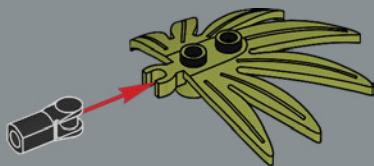

130

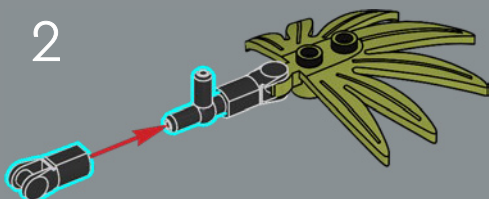

132

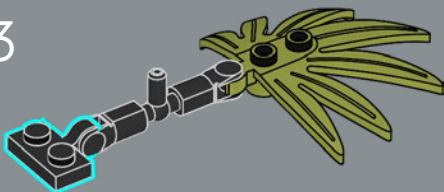

1

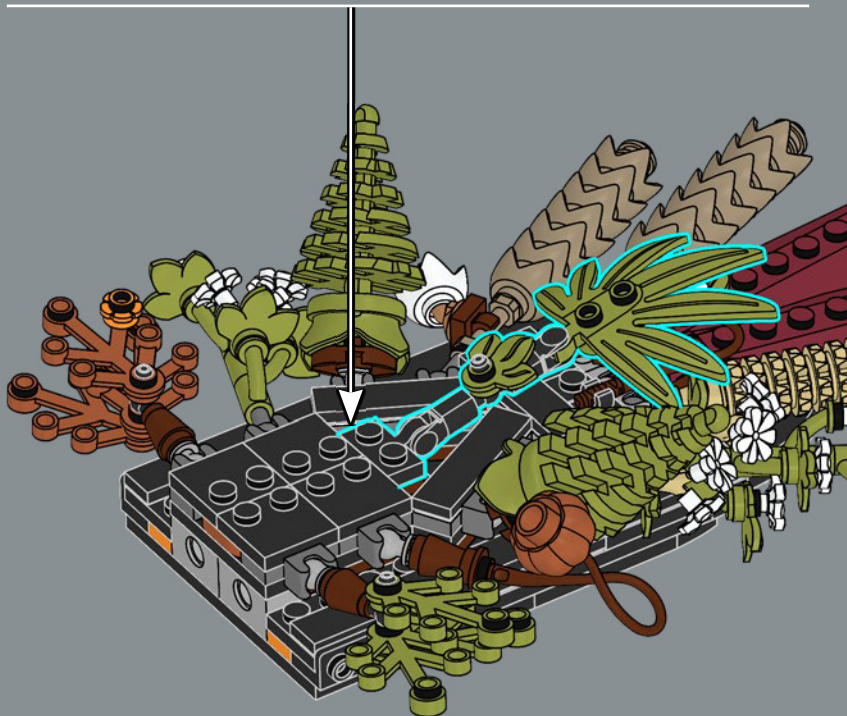

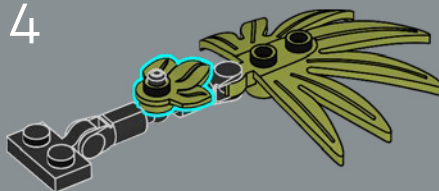

2

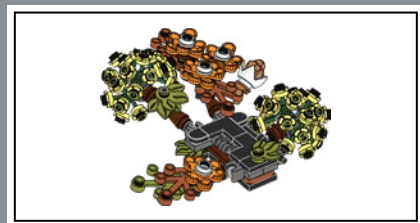

3

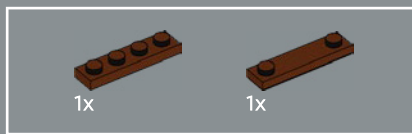

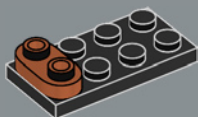

4

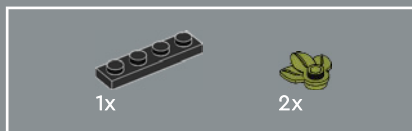

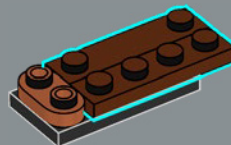

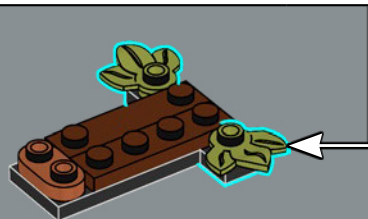

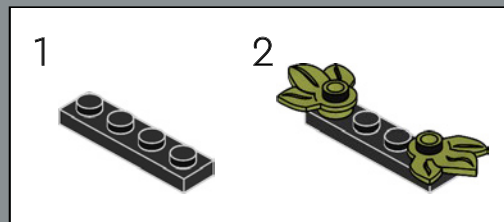

133

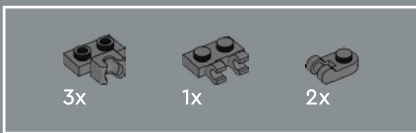

134

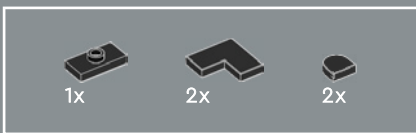

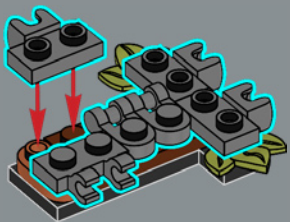

135

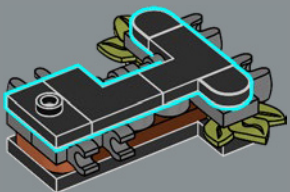

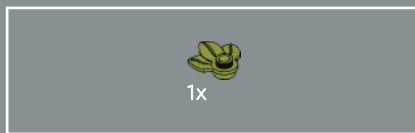

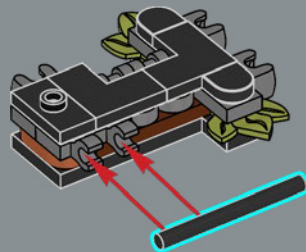

136

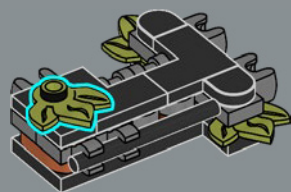

137

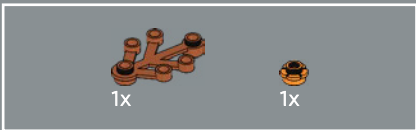

138

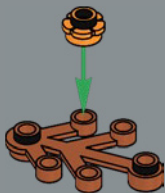

139

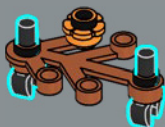

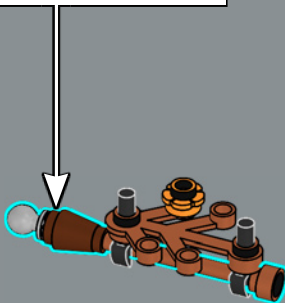

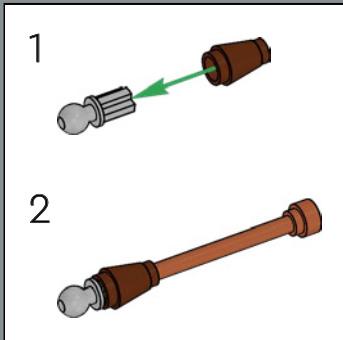

140

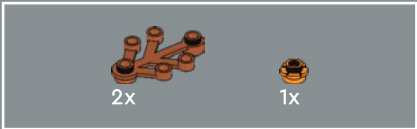

141

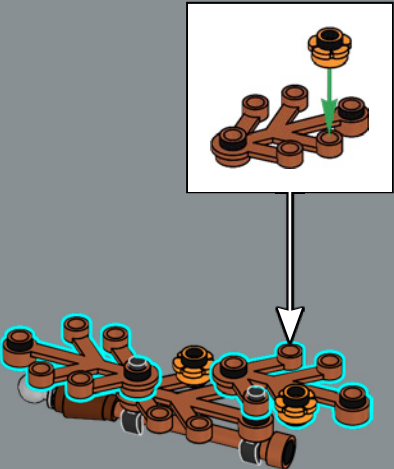

142

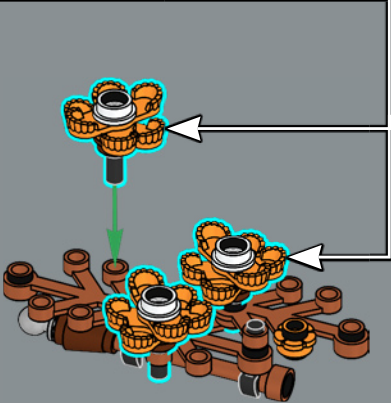

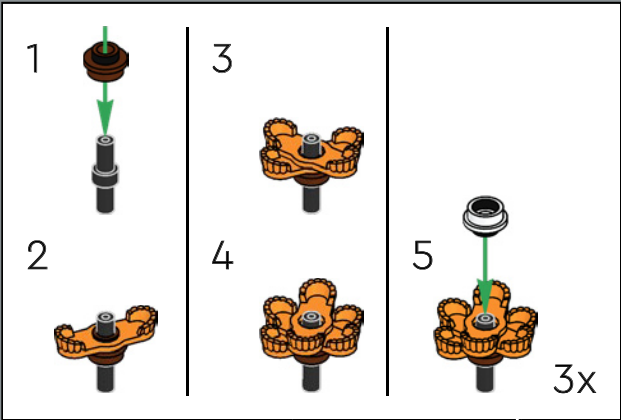

143

144

1x

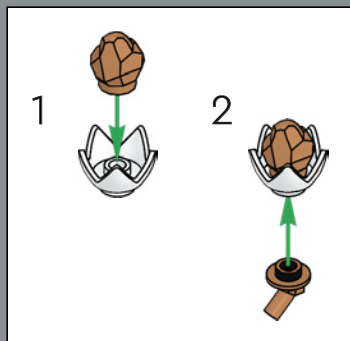

1x

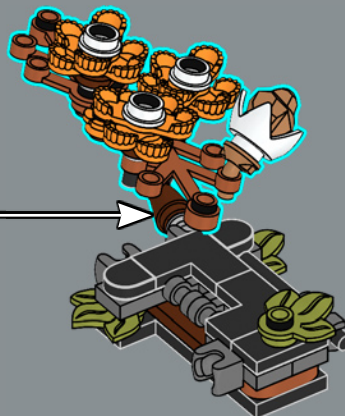

1x

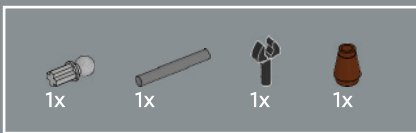

145

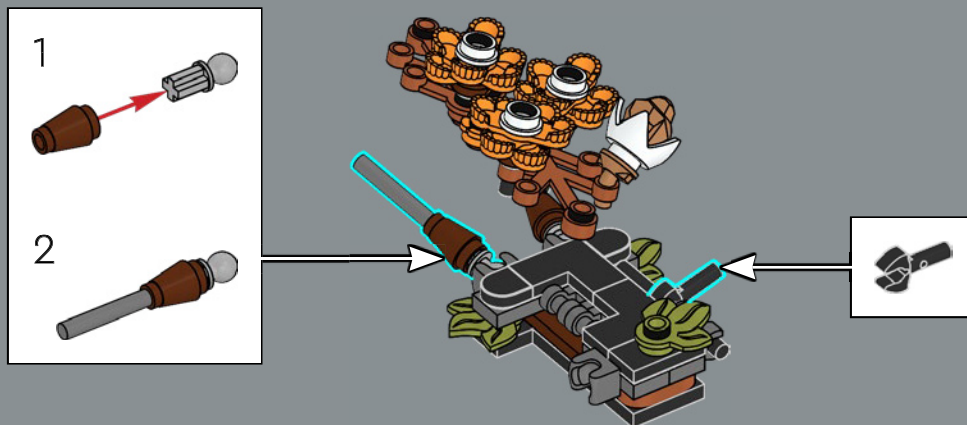

The dried daisy heads are constructed with a white crown element and a rare rock element first used as a gold nugget.

146

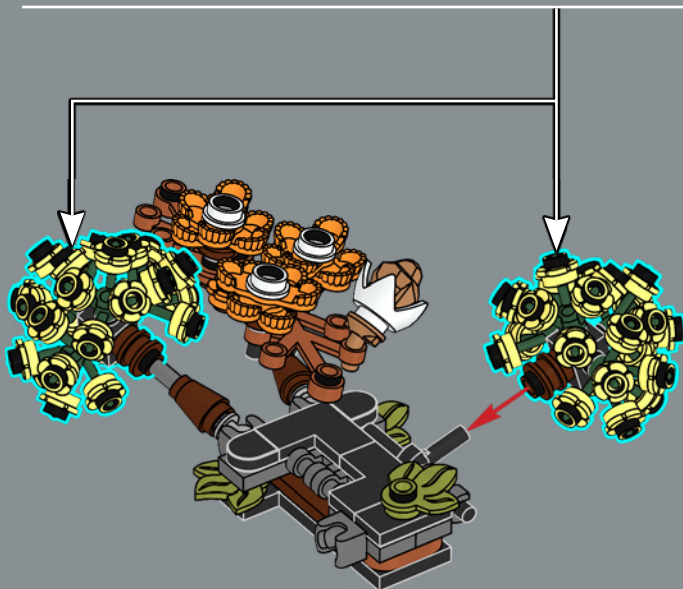

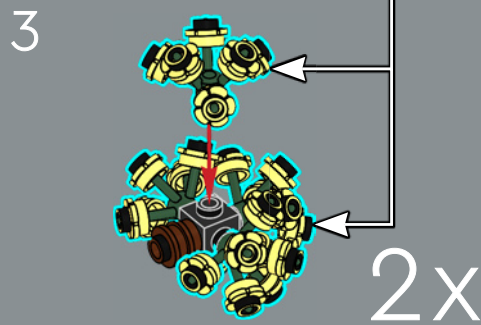

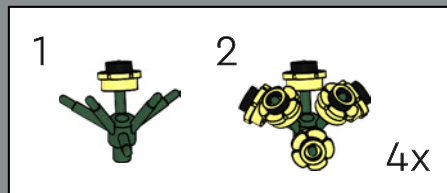

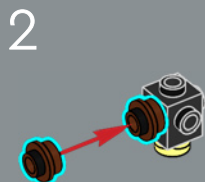

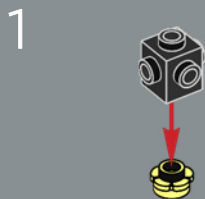

147

148

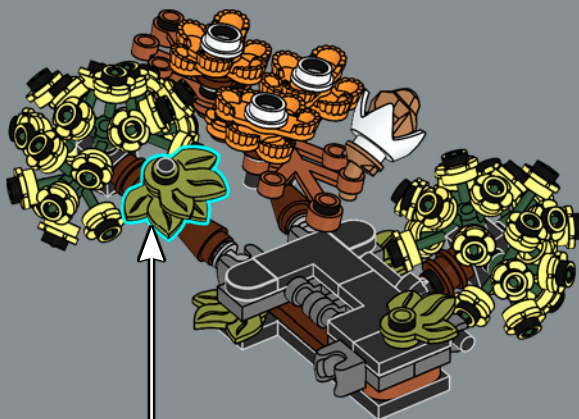

1x

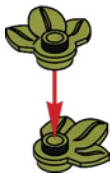

2x

149

1

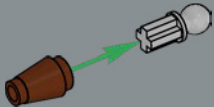

2

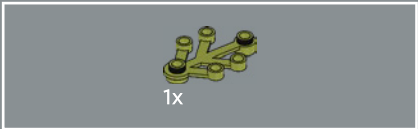

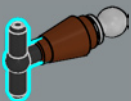

150

151

152

153

1x

1x

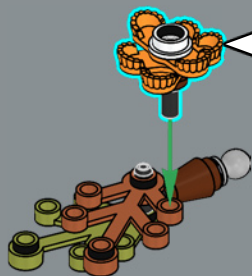

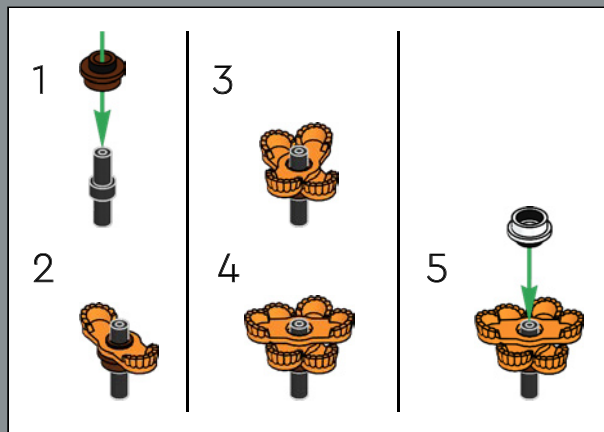

1x

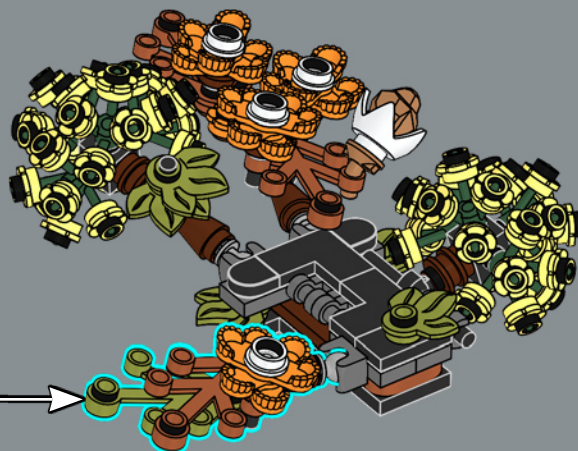

3x

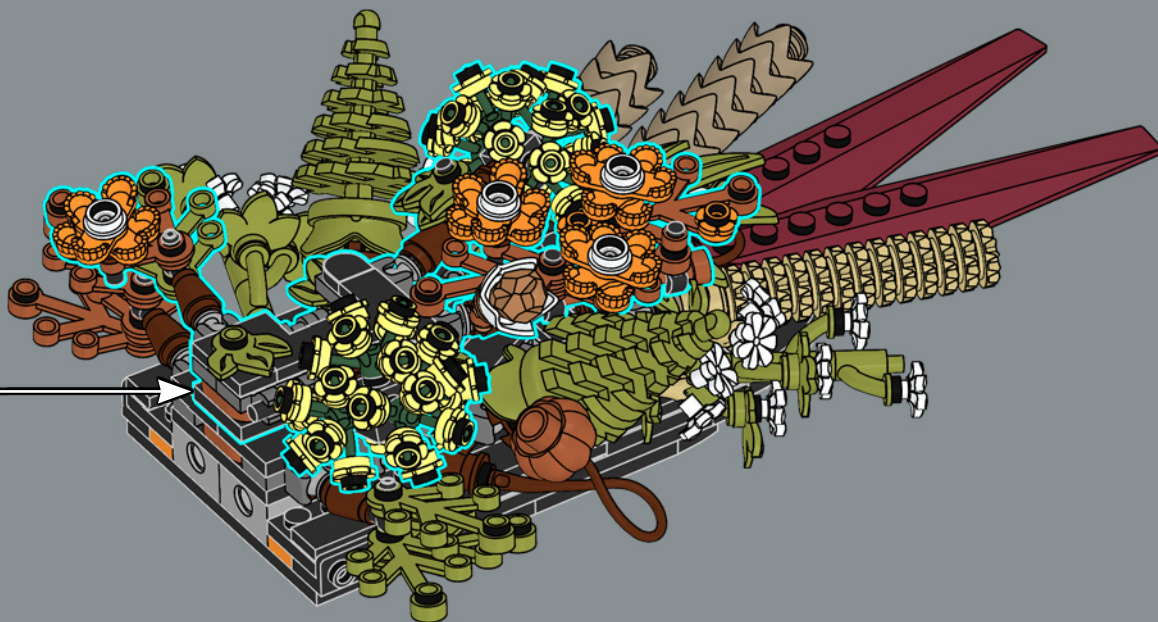

154

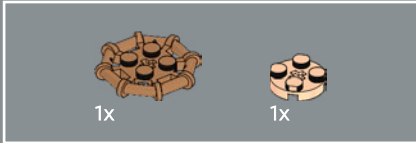

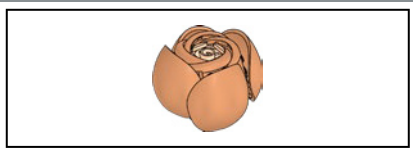

155

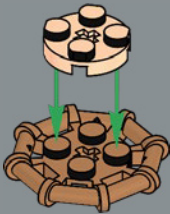

156

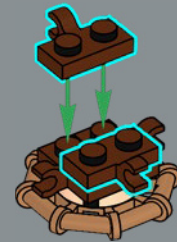

157

158

159

2x

160

1x

161

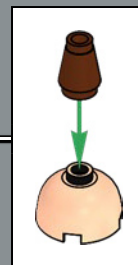

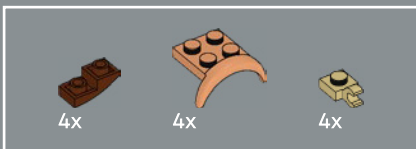

1x

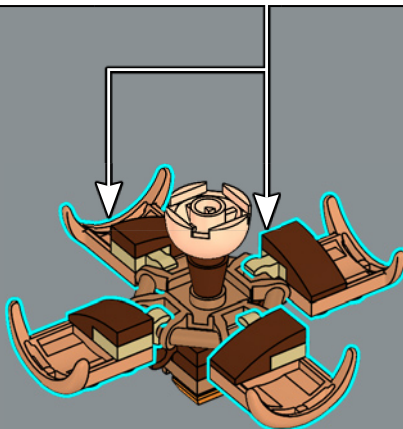

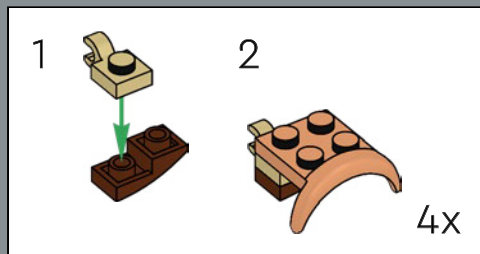

1x

162

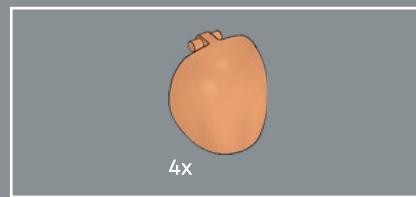

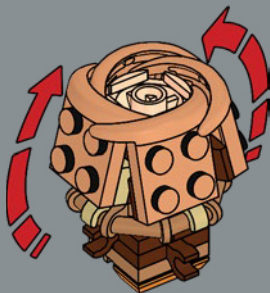

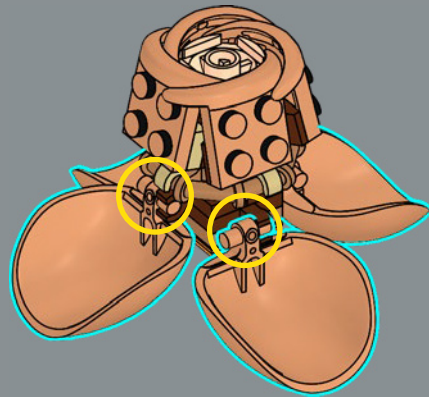

163

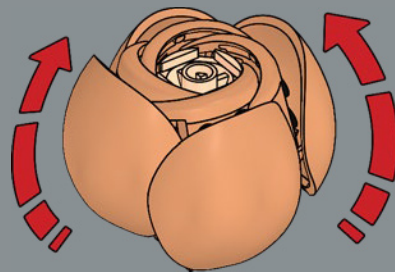

164

165

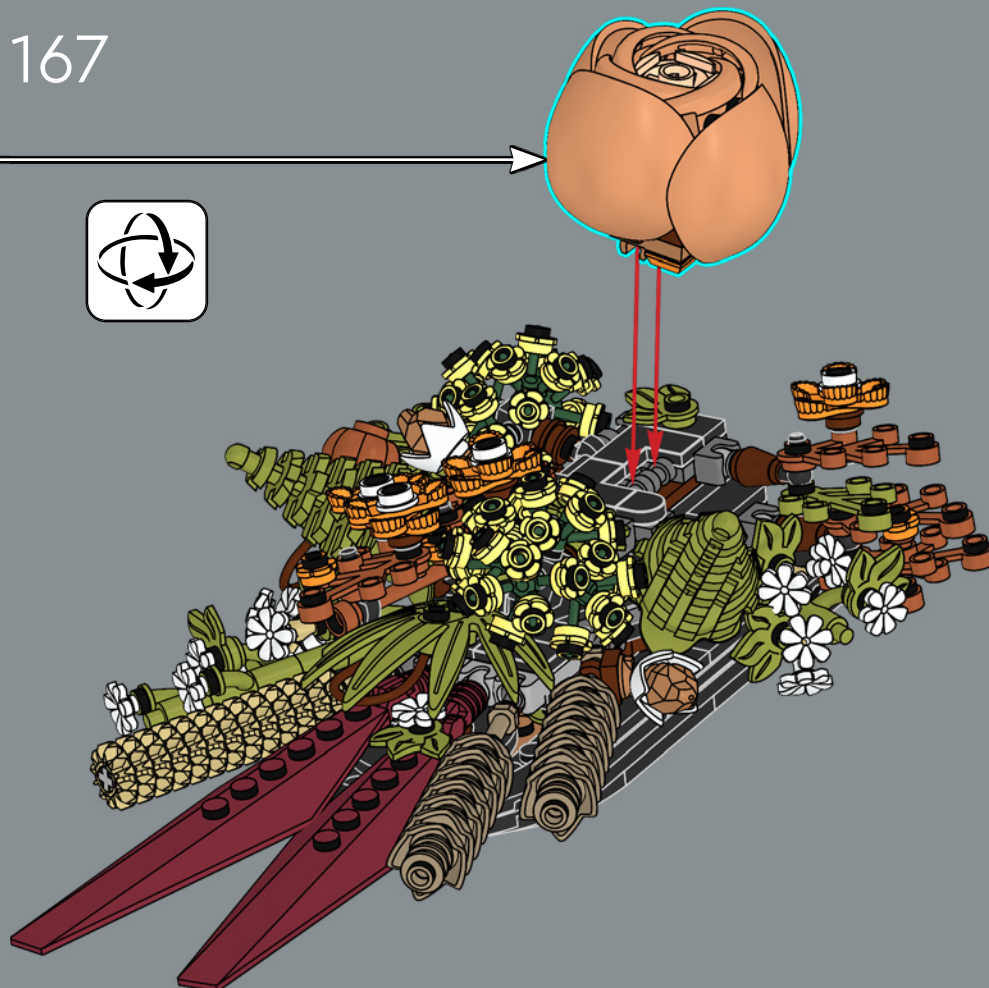

166

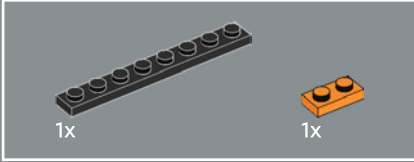

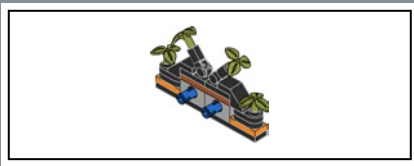

The intricate rose construction uses new mud guard elements for the inner petals and a new shell element for the outer petals.

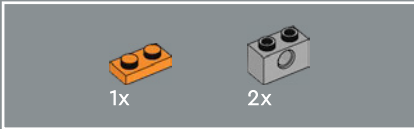

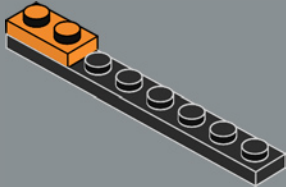

167

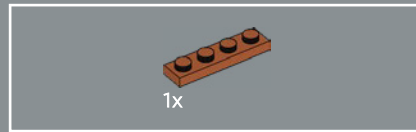

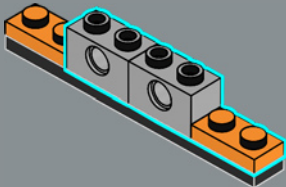

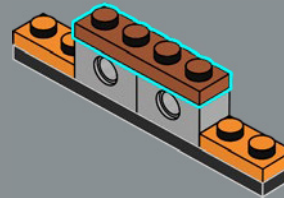

168

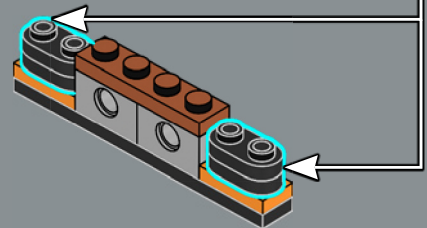

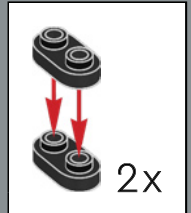

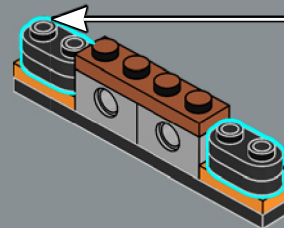

169

170

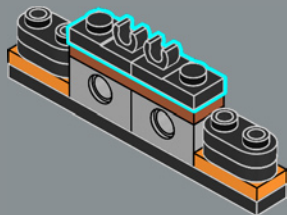

171

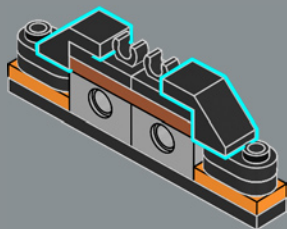

2x

172

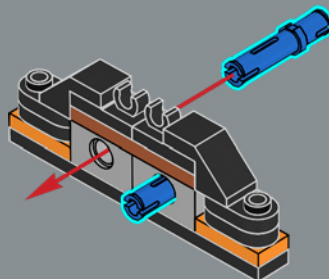

2x

173

2x

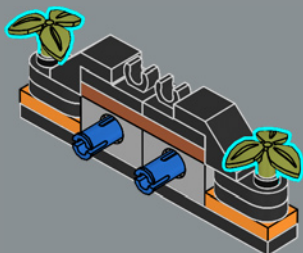

174

2x

175

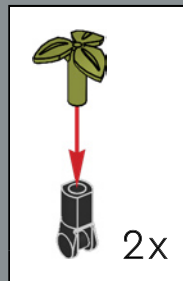

2x

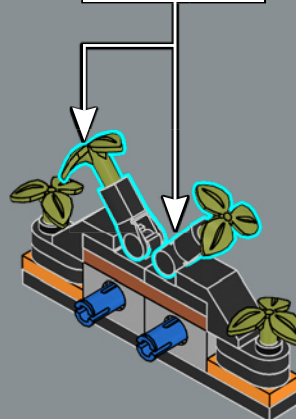

2x

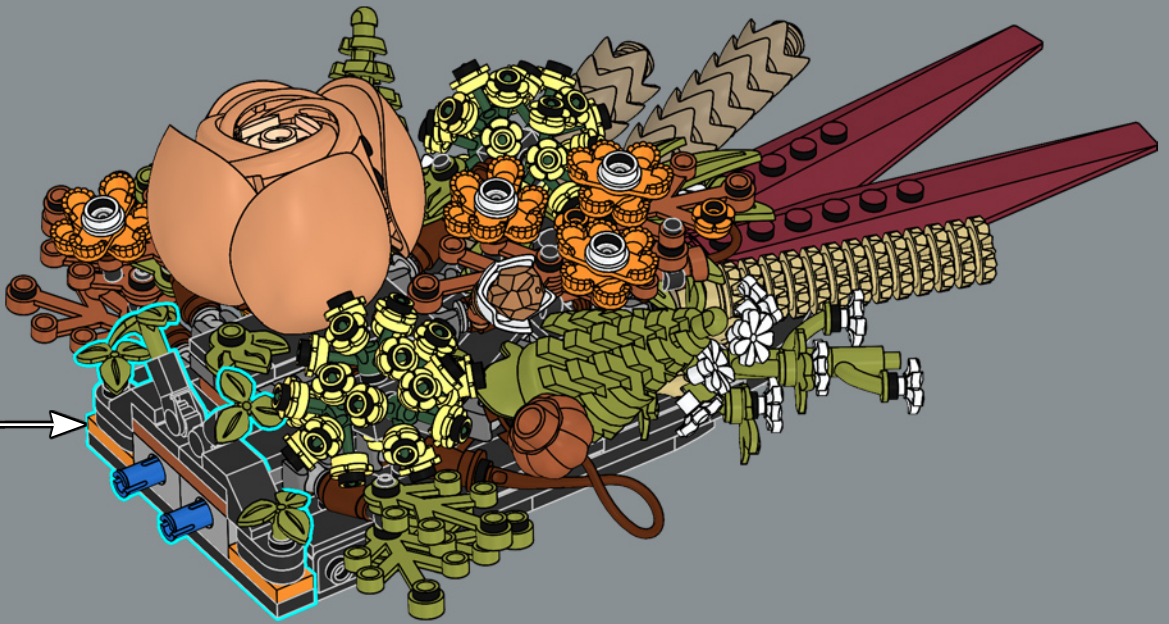

176

2x

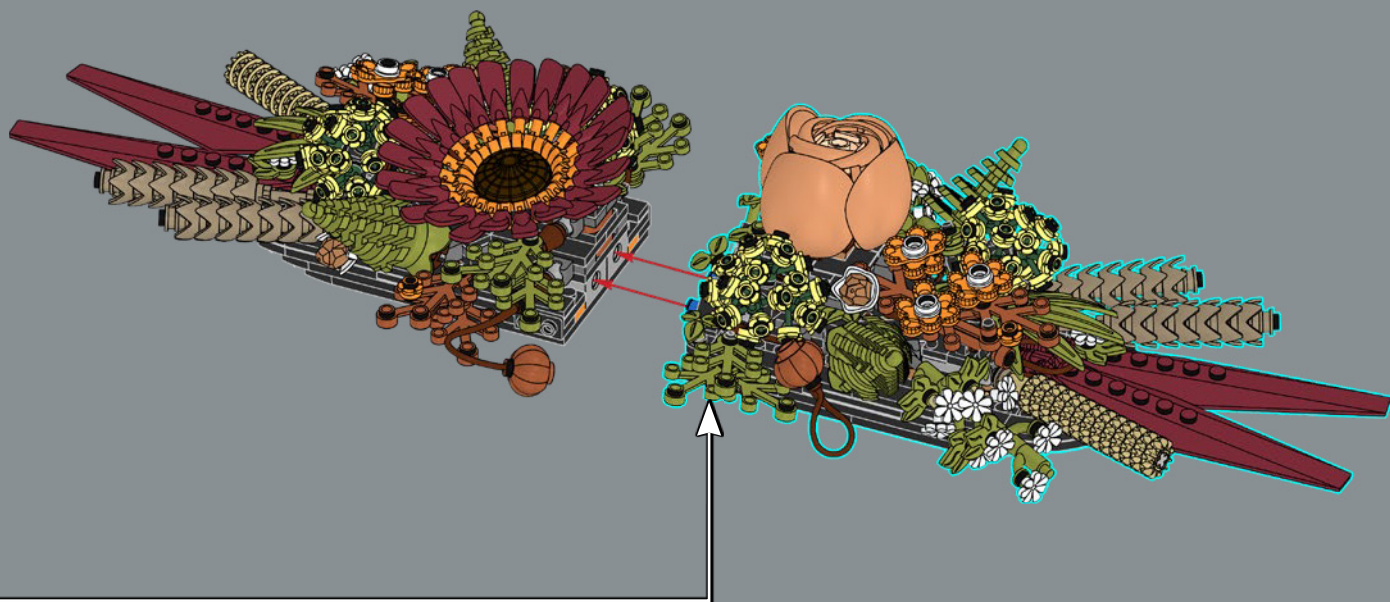

177

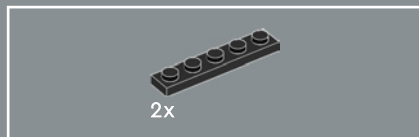

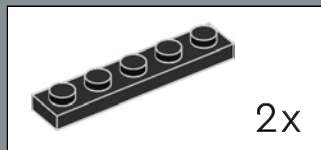

Dried flowers are sometimes preserved using a thin wax. The shiny elements in this set were chosen to replicate that wax look.

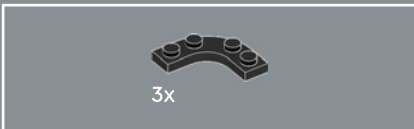

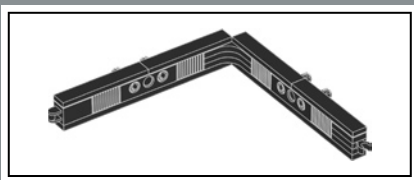

178

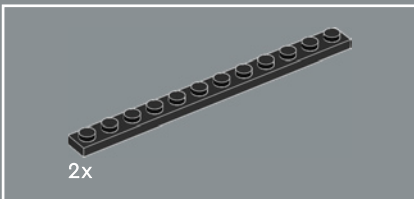

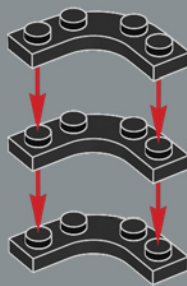

179

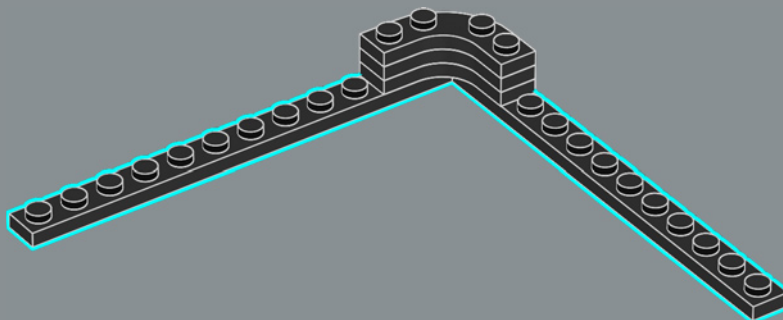

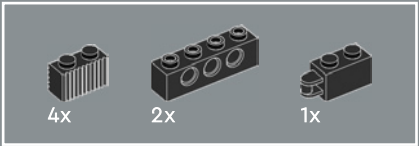

180

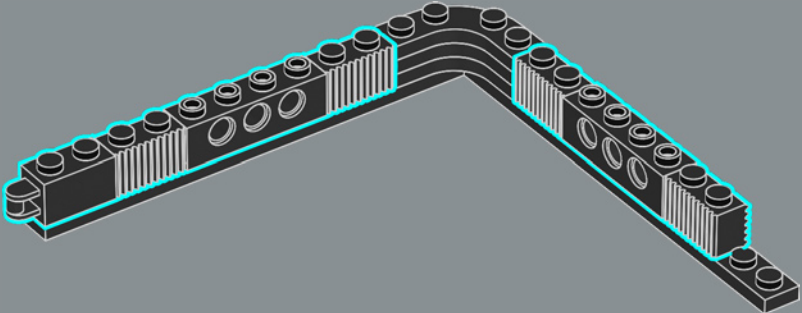

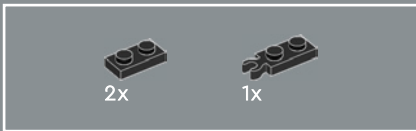

181

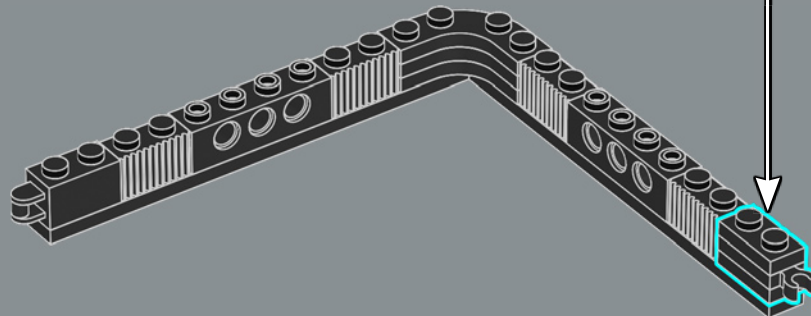

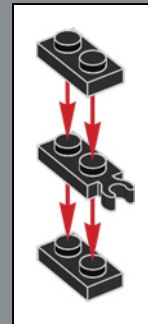

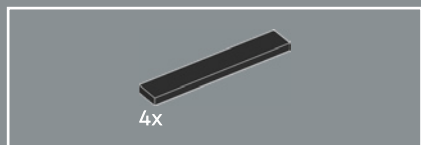

182

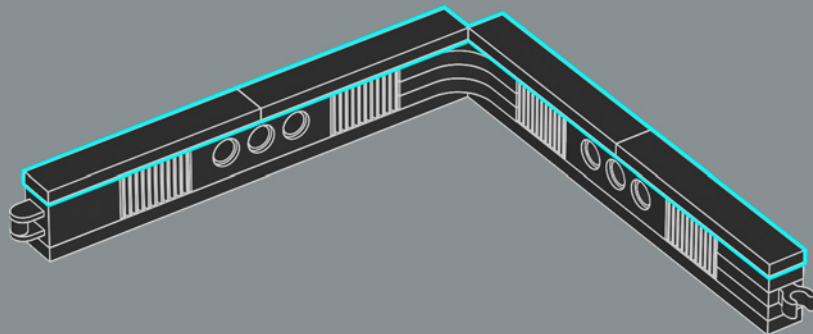

183

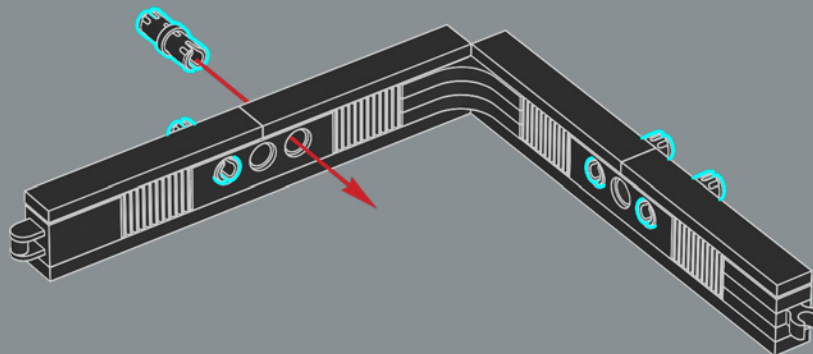

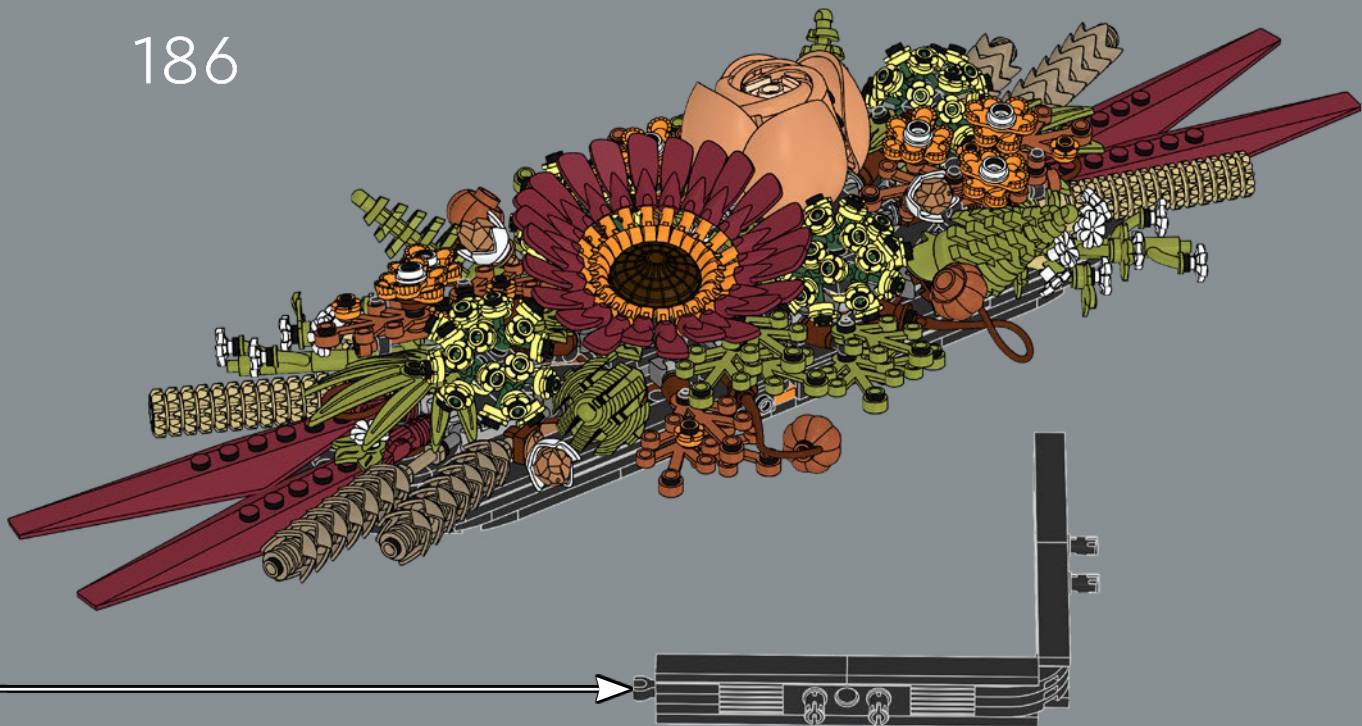

184

185

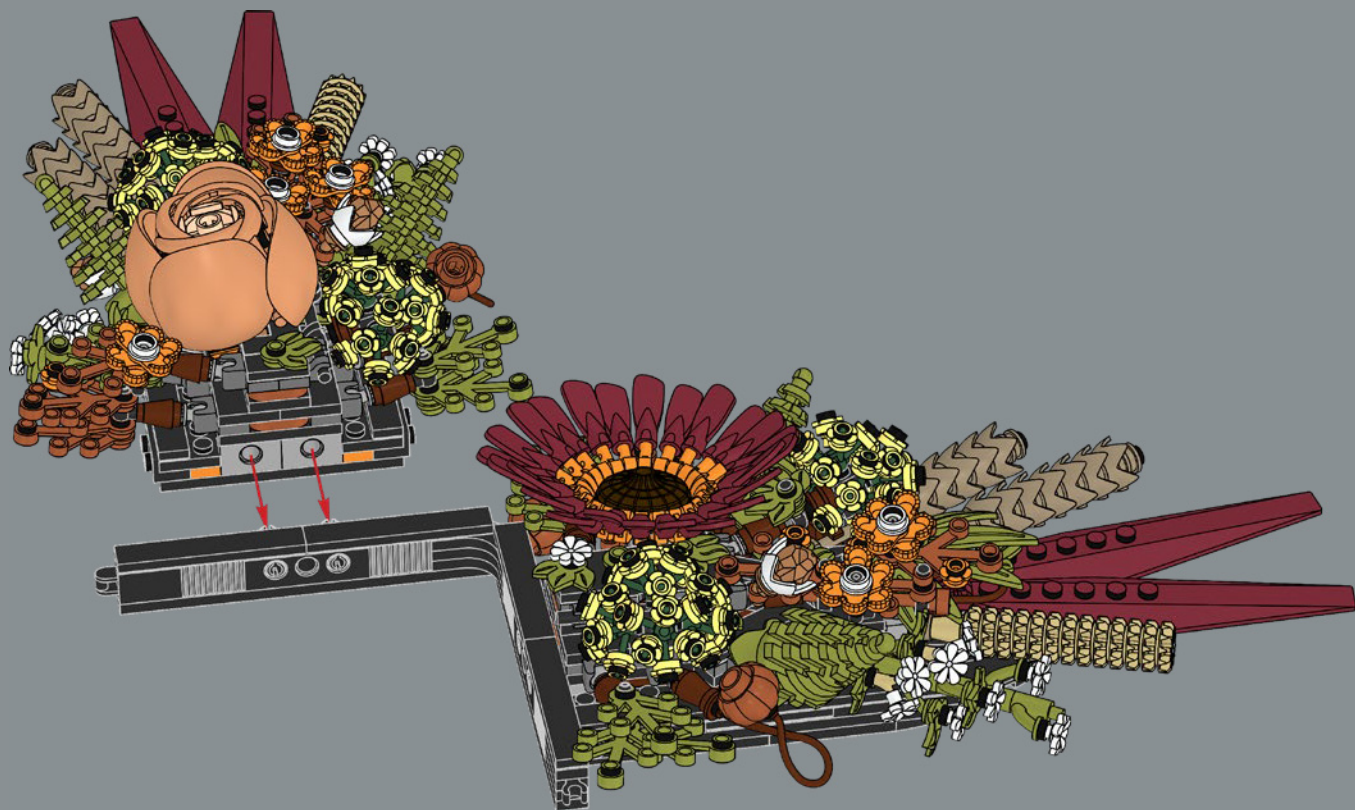

186

3 x 10314

